What to bring:

A current headshot and resume.

What to prepare:

Two contrasting monologues — one classical, one contemporary. One monologue must be close to type. You will have two minutes for your audition, which you may choose to use as you wish.

Ideally, select material that is active, where you need something from the person you are speaking to. You should always be familiar with the entire play from which your monologue comes, so that you have a full understanding of the character — who they are and what they want.

Selections should be self-explanatory with a clear beginning, middle, and end. Test the clarity of your piece by reading it to someone unfamiliar with the play. If there's any confusion, you should select a different piece.

We look forward to seeing your work and getting to know you!
